At the Greenwich Country Club on Wednesday the novel competition announced two or three weeks ago will be played. Walter Hagin. Aleck and Macdonaid Smith and Tom McNamara will play an eighteen hole round in the morning, and in the afternoon four professionals will draw lots for their partners in an amateur-professional best ball competition. The four amateurs for whom the lots will be drawn are Jerome D. Travers, Oswaid Kirkby, Fred Herreshoff and Henry J. Topping.

The Greenwich tourney surely should be a treat for the golfers and the idea probably will be copied by other clubs.

Another Wednesday event will be the boles of golf for a varied assortment of prizes.

The University Club tourneys have been semi-annual events for a great many years. For a long time they were played at St. Andrews, but a year or two ago the former collegians began to wander and have visited several other courses. This will be their first trip to Ardsley, however, and as usual they will play rain or shine.

The Eastern interscholastic championship will begin at Wykagyl this morning and will continue through Wednesday. Filling Carter, the present holder of the tijle, who won the Oakland tournament on Saturday, has left school, so a new champion is assured. Fillmore K Robeson, who won the United North and South tourney at Pinchurst, last last less the correct way, for other results have shown contrary evidence. It is usually admitted that the low handicap player goes off his game less frequently, that the poor golfer loses many strokes on one hole, also which accounts for a reduction of his handicap to three-fourths, and it has been suggested in a previous article that the giving of bisques is a much fairer method of dealing with all matches which go beyond the medal stage where handicaps are allowed.

This latter system has always seemed to me to contain the greatest merit; but the difficulties in determining upon the ratio have not yet been fully met. In place, therefore, of an elaborate system

The chief interest, however, will be in the new material that appears, for the biterscholas is championship always is likely to produce some unheralded Yangster who is destined to perform great feats.

The Women's Metropolitan Golf Association also will have a busy week. The final round of the series of handicap team matches, which have met with such marked success, will be played to finalists and they will settle the question of supremacy over the neutral took of the Arcola Country Club. This is offset, quite so I think, by the fact that the full eighteen holes, or as many of them as necessary are to be played at scratch with the usual inferior feeling of the poorer player and so on. But if, as should be the case, the returning a 72, two consistent rounds of 26 each over the nine hole course. easily determined.

My own opinion on the matter is that there is no settled system of thus fixing the number of allotted holes solely because of the differences there are in the courses, and that the action should be left to the committees of the various clubs to so determine, but I feel that not less than three-fourths of the handicape should be granted. If one player had twelve and another had sixteen a start of three holes would be about right; if a golfer had sixteen and another had twenty-three or twenty-four a start of six or seven holes would be in order. The length of the course would be the determining factor, the three-quarter handicap might well give way to the full allotment on long courses when there was no class distinction in the matter of handicaps, and then I feel confident that the matches would be more interesting, harder fought and thoroughly enjoyable.

My own opinion on the matter is that there with the Swedish American A. C., who won the cap with the Swedish Americans.

Golfers in general are a rather high strong lot when a tournament is in strongress. If the match is of the chambonship variety the tension is increased, ut even in the local events the testiness f an individual is often tried and found to wanting when an outside influence atterferes with his play. Oftentimes a lifer is annoyed for the whole eighteen lies because of some almost insignif.
